Introduction to the Assessment and Treatment of Adolescents Who Have Sexually Offended

James R. Worling, PhD, CPsych, ATSAF
Clinical and Forensic Psychologist

This seminar will provide an introductory overview to the assessment and treatment of adolescents who have sexually offended, with an emphasis on how strengths and protective factors impact our goals and approaches. This seminar will focus on providing practical information and strategies for clinicians, probation officers, juvenile justice workers, program administrators, and other interested professionals new to the field. The seminar will include lecture, case studies, discussion, demonstration, and detailed resource materials. Major topic areas will include the following:

- Common, erroneous assumptions regarding adolescents who have sexually offended
- Diversity among adolescents who have sexually offended and the importance of the assessment
- Limitations of commonly used risk prediction tools and approaches
- Emerging research regarding the importance of protective factors
- Importance of therapist characteristics and self-care
- Detailed tips and strategies for talking with clients about difficult issues
- Brief overview of assessment/treatment tools (e.g., viewing time measures, PPG, psychological tests, polygraph)
- Common treatment targets (and intervention strategies) including enhancing healthy sexual arousal and sexual attitudes, increasing accountability, developing sexual offense-prevention plans, and enhancing awareness of the impact of sexual offending behavior
- Brief overview of treatment outcome research

James R. Worling, PhD, CPsych is a clinical and forensic psychologist in full-time private practice who has worked extensively with adolescents who have sexually offended, and their families, since 1988. He has also works with children and adolescents who have been sexually abused and with children under 12 who have engaged in harming sexual behaviours.
