What is it?

• JUMPPO is an interactive learning place for ATSA members who work with children or adolescents.
• The meetings are hosted by the JPC.
• Topics will focus on the interests of ATSA members.
• Participants will have the option to share experiences, consult on cases, and discuss specific topics as requested.

Why have it?

• JUMPPO offers an opportunity for ATSA members who work with children and adolescents to connect with others who want to share cutting edge knowledge.

When is it?

• Dates and times of each meeting will be based on the schedules and availability of the meeting hosts, who will vary from meeting to meeting.
• Meetings will be 90 minutes in length.

Who can attend?

• All ATSA members are welcome, but meetings are intended for ATSA members who work with children and adolescents. Because space will be limited for each meeting, preference will be given to those working with young people.

Disclaimer: These events are for peer consultation and learning purposes only, and do not replace the need for clinical supervision. Issues discussed in the meetings may not represent the views of ATSA.
